

Hello!

It is Friday Jan 12, 2018 at the time of this writing.

The new studio is leased and I have started the move. The internet service there will be a few days to be installed, however I have the power on, and the move has started!

I am writing this as it may be a couple of days in between videos as I am teaching at my training center during the day, and operating my internet businesses during the rest of the day and night.

And in between, I am moving.. actually moving to include driving to Walmart to buy a vacuum cleaner and cleaning supplies and then USING THEM!

Who came up with THAT IDEA???

I should have all the move completed this weekend and be read to do the best podcasts ever the second they get my internet.. and I bought SUPER FAST internet and...

PHONE service.. which you will hear about calling in and why.. a bit later.

I have also hired the second new employee so that commissions are paid on time every week... and some of the other things done that I often struggle with as I run out of day at about 19 hours.

I am very excited for what I will be able to bring to my internet community and customers and friends in the coming days!

I will shoot a video of the new studio and also of the new training center for my tactical training school as I leased extra space so I would have my own classrooms when I teach thru my school rather than the state.

The programming is in for the referral program, I just have to build my stuff into it now and move the payment buttons over to PaulDarbyPodCast.TV instead of PaulDarbyPodCast.com so that will be starting soon and when you see how many people sign up once they see a banner on Social Media or get an email blast you will find that you LOVE that multi-tier payout!

We will ROCK the net with this FIRST of it's kind Podcast!

So.. I am working all weekend, other than my wife wants new floors and somehow she tricked me into agreeing to go to a flooring showroom tomorrow to "help" her pick out new flooring for our house.

Help meaning, bring a credit card! :- )

I hope you are well, this was to say hello, to update you and to let you know that an AWESOME PODCAST SHOW was coming and we are moving fast on everything!

All my best,

Paul Darby